General Information

The South Carolina Day by Day Family Literacy Activity Calendar is for use by schools, daycare centers, preschools, and agencies that work with families with children under the age of 7, who come from low income or low literacy backgrounds, or who have very limited resources in their community.

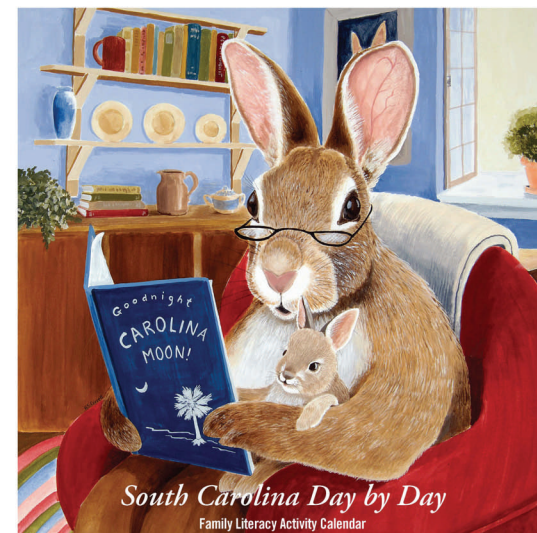

The Calendar was created by the South Carolina State Library with funding from the U.S. Institute of Museum and Library Services, the S.C. State Library Foundation, and a group of partners concerned about reading readiness for South Carolina's children.

If your organization's target audience meets these criteria you may qualify for a supply of free calendars to distribute to families in your program. For information on these copies, please contact Denise Lyons at the South Carolina State Library at 803.734.6061 or by email at dlyons@statelibrary.sc.gov.

For individual or group purchases, orders can be placed by using the form included in this brochure. Proceeds from sales will support future printings of the Calendar for disadvantaged communities and will provide programming support to those partners who are using the calendar in an educational setting. Future versions of the Day by Day Calendar include a Spanish version, a Braille/large type version, and an interactive online version.

Children benefit from the opportunity to develop early literacy skills and enjoy positive learning experiences, immersing themselves in print-rich environments which will help them to become more successful in school and ultimately lifelong learners.

Libraries Are Essential to Family Literacy

The South Carolina State Library is one of many agencies and organizations partnering in the cause of family literacy. The South Carolina Day by Day Calendar is designed to assist and encourage emergent reading and family literacy services at public libraries and in the programs of other organizations that serve our State's children.

Day by Day is a perpetual calendar, so that it can be used every year. Beginning in September, each month has a theme around which books, songs, activities, arts and cultural events, health and family wellness information is centered.

South Carolina information and scenes also appear throughout the calendar. Enjoy the daily activities as you build children's reading skills!
